How time flies when you are having fun. One moment you are still baking with a little too much fat on the beach (read Rutbeek) and the other moment you are again in the coats of three sheep, holding a cup of hot chocolate, chilling in warm panties and enjoying the winter. Yes nothing is more changeable than the weather, except for this committee, because things have changed again. Where we were with 6 last time, we are with 9 this edition! And now I can already hear you thinking, what happened here? Who joined? Well, I'm going to explain that to you in great detail. Of course, Promohomeo Romeo has been part of the committee since the board change. We also have two fresh members. Both water polo Ladies, who are adding a more feminine touch to the panties. These are Sarah and Karlijn. The nine of us put blood, sweat and tears (and no other things) into these panties. Finally, we also had a small job change. Yes it is true, these are my last panties as chairman of this wonderful committee. From now on, Romeo is at the helm of this wonderful collection of people.

Happy reading and see you next edition!

Vincent Oosterhoff

Hi sweet little fish,

After more than 6 hours of meetings and having to be silent for a long time because everyone could hear us through Titus's microphone, we woke up to the sound of the gavel. It is time, we are the board of Piranha. This year I swim together with Ilse, Denise, Aaron, Pieter and Rinke at the front of the school of fish called ZPV Piranha. Suddenly, we are responsible and people expect us to make decisions about important (and less important) things.

Recent times have been quite varied. In fact, everything was arranged for our Meet The Board drink, since a constitution drink, as we know it, could not take place. However, we had to cancel it because the corona figures in the Netherlands continue to rise or as Gerard Joling says: We are going rocket now.

Fortunately, we were able to hold our board meetings safely in the Bastille. We have been meeting there for a couple of hours now. Unfortunately, this is no longer possible because the measures have been further tightened, which is completely understandable. Luckily, we have our beloved panda to support us in these difficult times. These measures also mean that we as Piranha can no longer do what we love to do, swim. Just like you, we will keep a close eye on the messages from the government and let you know as soon as it is safe to swim again. To ensure that our fins are nice and flexible, we have been busy organizing land training together with Cronos. Het Zinkstuk also decided to "steal" the gavel just before the board switch. This was all resolved in time to allow us to switch. In exchange for the gavel, they wanted a date dinner. Since our great friend Rona does not allow that now, we have converted it into an online game night.

Finally, as an activities commissioner and of course also on behalf of the board, I would like to say that I hope that we will make it a safe and very pleasant year again. Despite if that means that we will occasionally have to do online activities.

Hugs and kisses (at 1.5m)
Romeo

Ties van 't Erve Bingo-evening

Balls rolled, tears flowed and there were a lot of stripes. No, I'm not talking about a standard Euro drink, but about the night where the Buba was transformed into Los Angeles. People sold their souls to the fantastic game called Bingo. People always told me that Piranhas will not devour you, but nothing could be further from the truth. Once the forbidden word was called, the time had come. I find it hard to describe how fast it went. Still, I'm going to explain it, even though it's not easy to talk about the numbers and the balls. The moment the ball slid rolled out off the machine and Johanneke displayed them gracefully, the eyes were clinging to the bingo card. There was only attention for the card. It was so intense that even nobody noticed that the number 69 came along. Nobody lost sight of their goal, namely all those great prizes. The prizes were old Piranha clothing merch and especially scarves. There were only a few happy Henkies, where Lady Luck then fell from the sky, she became their baby and they became her baby again, because these Henkies can now be recognized by clothes that date back to the prehistoric times. How can you recognize this? It's very simple, it has the underwater hockey branche on it. When this sport was still possible to do at Piranha, Wout was still an innocent young student. The question we therefore got was: "How did you get all these beautiful things (and those 'enormously' beautiful hats)." Unfortunately, this is a committee secret, otherwise we will not be able to organize such a cool Bingo again in five years. Hopefully, after five years, we will have such creative minds in our midst again, who will not only think about normal bingo, but also about Bingo-Bingo. Not only did people participate even more fanatically in this game, the prizes were even better than at the other Bingo. Ketchup, Smarties, Soap and above all homemade artworks. When there were no more prizes left at the end of the evening, the Piranhas were no longer there as the fish. Conclusion of the evening: this was one of the most visited activities of this year and it was not due to the organizing skills of Dû EVC, but due to the range of free merch!

Vincent Oosterhof TNC

After all the uncertainty, we got the green light! The TNC was allowed to continue again this year! In a slightly different form than usual, but that did not spoil the fun. We started the build-up on Friday evening. A dozen Piranhas were on hand to help lug banks, set up tents and, of course, position the tap. Of course, this tap had to be tested that same evening. After drinking enough courage we could start the day fresh as a fiddle on Saturday. It was the turn of the men's low group. The Piranha Gods Sons were eager to enter the water, ready to perform.

And they did! Certainly after the necessary beers in the interval between matches, these men played the stars of the sky, or at least, that's how they brought it themselves. After the morning program it was time for the real work, the real men were allowed to enter the water. Represented by our own elite, an afternoon of high-quality polo started. It was so exciting that even a tie breaker was needed at the end of the ride. This was done in the most student-like way possible, with a beer relay. They swam a lane, slurped in a golden yellow fun cilinder and then swum back again.

After this exciting ending it was time to enjoy a wonderful evening without stress. Our favorite delivery person from Elat Roma came to the outdoor pool with a pile of heart valve grease. After everyone had eaten all the lost calories, the evening meal was washed down with a small beer. Then "arrived" Sunday morning. Time for the ladies group. The guppies are ready in the starting blocks to show the present ladies teams how to play. The Guppies convincingly won the day. It was not the same as previous years, but for what was possible it was a great alternative! Thank you committee for the organization and everyone until next year!

Wout Vissers Online Activities

During the autumn something happened we were all afraid of, when the days started to darken again, and everyone back in their house had to flee from the cold, he struck again. We are of course talking about the Virus (ta taaa taaaaaaa). Again, the government came up with some restrictive measures. It made organizing the activities a lot more difficult, but of course this did not mean a complete stop to the fun. The piranha discord has reopened as an online activities medium. Just like during that oh so nice first wave, everyone is now crawling behind their screen with a camera, to have a nice drink and chat, while enjoying a delicious game of scribble.io or other games available on the global web. However, online bubbling remains far from ideal. Often you notice that the technology sometimes does not want to cooperate. Why are these cameras always looking so bad? On half of those beautiful discord screens you only see some cubes, we already live in the 21st century a little camera quality is not too much to ask. It's still a weird face, bubbling behind your PC, normally you'd call someone an alcoholic when someone has been drinking some beers late into the night all on their own. Fortunately, these practices are now so called exceptions and online activities are widely accepted. Online activities also bring a lot of benefits. You're basically already at home, so saying you can not have a drink because you still have to drive, or you can not join because you still have to go all the way to campus are really reasons you can't use with online activities any more. In recent weeks there have been quite a few online activities, so the guppies have had an online introduction, and there has been a game night on the web. Finally, there was an epic radio broadcast of Beer and Wout. During the broadcast, plenty of requests were made. Furthermore, there was a real beer tasting during the broadcast in which Beer and Wout trained the beers well and the beers were judged together with the listeners. In difficult times, online activities are a solution to give you the feeling of being with each other.

Association Day

Every disadvantage has an advantage. This proverb was central to this day. Apart from the new fish, the concept of V-weekend is a rock within the association. It is a weekend full of fun, little or no swimming and the most important beer (or water for the enthusiast)! To everyone's regret, we had to cancel this weekend because of our big friend corona. Fortunately, we were able to make a compromise with our other great friend Mark. Instead of a weekend, we made it a day and swimming was the main focus. Early in the morning the committee started making sandwiches under the motto lekkere kadetjes. When the bears were done making sandwiches, it was a wonder that a number of hangover Piranhas were in time to participate in the Rescue workshop. After the refreshing dive, one group could enjoy lunch already, while the other group was busy changing into underwater hockey clothing. Then the magical magic trick came and the groups alternated. That's not the only magic trick according to some. The sandwiches have also been tampered with, but that is a different story. After some rest and some beers, it was time for the last activity of the day. It was to try to keep your legs above water as elegantly as possible. I have to tell you honestly, I wasn't very good. Fortunately several people were able to do something under the instruction of Tamara. After 4 beautiful performances, it were the Johnys who charmed the jury with their dabs. It was a warm day, everyone took a nice ice cream and they spent their time playing frisbee with an underwater frisbee, throwing a ball or enjoying the music of the DJ Duo RoTi's, who were playing countless hits, until Beer had enough of it. After everyone had enjoyed burgers, pizzas and hairdressing salons, well almost everyone had that, but a stubborn person thought that pasta from elat would be tasty, it was time for more beers or water. After a short introduction round of the former KB and the beer relay it was time to break things down and continue 'partying' in the sports canteen, because a V day or weekend is never complete without a little escalation. To reflect on with which words we started. Without corona we wouldn't have organized such a nice day!

Sander de Ridder

My cat could probably write a better piece walking over my keyboard

Okay, so past week I was afflicted with some intense "writers block". Could it be due to -shameless plug- slamming out 5000 words the past weeks to finish my Bachelor report? Perhaps. Well, quite probably. So my brain prefers to do simple stuff at the moment. And shutting down my brain apparently works pretty well playing online games. My introvert side is not feeling the pressures of -gasp- regular human contact, whilst the side of me that is completely done with these lockdowns is still getting its fix. Of course I would much rather be in the water again, however since that is impossible at the moment it is nice to still talk to people. I have never been crazy about board or card games, however I am starting to appreciate them more and more. It may be that I'm just missing waterpolo matches, this being a way to still be competitive (yes, I know now the right mindset just have fun yada yada). After being locked away for a while, having drinks with my roommates got a bit stale and playing online videogames gets old too. Perhaps we can replace the cancelled stuff by playing games on Discord?

Lustrum Activities

Piranha's birthday drink – September 16

On September 16 it was finally time: the 55th birthday of ZPV Piranha !! This was of course celebrated entirely in birthday style, with delicious candy bags with a small ICEje here and there and a pair of brand new orange lustrum dice for each member. These stones were immediately tested during a mex tournament. In between, a certain comedian was spotted, after which there was still a lot of bubbling in the update.

EscalaXI training – September 18

On September 18 there was a wonderful escalation in the outdoor pool. The Piranhas entered the water with loud hits from the Gebroeders Scooter for a small beer relay and a game of rugby. Afterwards there were some small drinks here and there by the members, and a little dance party on the side was of course not to be missed.

Lustrum Pubquiz – September 25

On September 25, we as a lustrum committee tested the knowledge of our members with a Piranha pub quiz. Some have learned more than others, but there was new information for everyone; even for us. The picture round had a fallacy that most people fell for, as well as the music round where the last song had nothing to do with water. The exciting battle really started at the slipper round, where even the authors or contributors no longer knew which slipper belonged to whom. Lots of specialty beers and laughter, furthermore, two teams turned out to be well matched, so they still had to answer the question of questions; how many members does Piranha have at the moment? After a long sweat, Wout was further from Jesse, and 'Koel' could call himself the real winner.

New Members

Hi fellow fish!

My name is Nynke and I have been a member of Piranha since the beginning of this academic year. I started studying technical mathematics at UT in September. I come from the Eindhoven area, so in order to be ahead of the question, the answer is: of course the TU/e was not nearly as nice as the University of Twente, there was no Piranha there! Now for the serious answer, I liked the atmosphere here a lot more and living on campus also appealed to me. I now live in a nice student house near the forest. I have always been competitive in swimming and wanted to continue that here. I also play trombone in SHOT and I am a wannabe piano player. There is some work to be done there...

I'll see you at training!
Love, Nynke

Well, my passion for water.. Let's think.. Just seven months after birth, on the coconut island Aruba, it has already arisen. Mom is relaxing on the beach while I crawl through the surf as a small fish, under panic from the locals. When I spoke to a lifeguard on Ameland a few years ago, I knew immediately. I want that too! It was an absolute no-brainer to join the Rescue branch of Piranha. Every week I train with a fanatical group of Piranhas to participate in guards at various events in the future. There is a lot of fun together and the fanaticism of the training is therefore always continued in the canteen;) I hope to have a good time and to celebrate a party with all the other Piranha's in the future!

Greetings!! Stan Mulder

Hi hi,

My name is Sarah and I will train with Piranha's guppies this year. I am a first year BMT student and got to know Piranha during the kick-in.

With my do-group we participated in an introductory training, after which I registered on the spot.

I've been playing water polo for 2 years now and every now and then, I'm still a bit of a klutz in the water. This, of course, isn't that bad since my sociability makes up for this.

Besides water polo I am a member of the mediacie, I sometimes like to read a book and I enjoy watching netflix. It's a good thing I have these hobbies, at least I have something to do on the train on my way to my parents.

All in all I hope to have a great time with Piranha and the guppies. I hope to get to know everyone soon.

Greetings, Sarah

Dear readers,

My name is Wouter and this year I started the OW diving course with two of my friends (Robin and Marit, see photo). I am now in the 4th year of technical Medicine and this is the first year I have been a member of Piranha. Now, I hear you think: "Why just now?". Well, it is true that I participated in the intro training of swimming last year. However, conditionally I seriously underestimated this, so that I only recently fully recovered. Because of this I also had my doubts about signing up for the introduction dive. Luckily I eventually succumbed to the pressure of my friends (and the praised member Vincent Oosterhof). I really liked the introduction dive, that's why I signed up for the OW course. I'm really looking forward to it, and who knows, I might also try a swimming training...

From who is this ass?

Here at Piranha there are al lot af tasty buts. Do you recognize this but? Send a funny email to mediacie@zpv-piranha.nl and win awesome prizes.

Karlijn and Karlijn

Karlijn, Karlijn and the column

Hello cuties!

This summer, the Mediacie was expanded with another Karlijn and that gave us (Karlijn & Karlijn) the nice idea to turn this page into a Karlijn & Karlijn column! Because you can never get enough of a Karlijn. 🤪

In the ancient past, two nice ladies with in Piranha had a ladies column in 'het Slipje'. We thought it would be nice to bring this back to life and give it our own twist! There are many amazing topics to start a column with, especially when the fun month December starts. However, since the horror year 2020 is almost over, we take this moment to complain one more time and we hope you can enjoy complaining with us! And what's greater than complaining about the struggles while swimming. Starting off mainly ladies complain that the pool is too cold, but believe us, men also have struggles while swimming.

Before we get into some women's issues, let's start with one that everyone can relate to: diving into the pool before practice. We cannot imagine that there is someone who does like this, if you do we would like to hear!

Karlijn: That's actually the hardest part of the whole training...

Karlijn: Definitely, even though once you're in the water it is fine.

Karlijn: Except for the outdoor pool, it stays cold if you don't go in immediately.

Not only is the beginning of the training a horror moment, the cold often also meets us afterwards. It starts with walking towards the showers, especially when people leave the outside door to the pool open, the cold air will blow straight at you. At that moment you probably think: 'ah, but luckily I can take a nice hot shower'. But when the shower has finally warmed you thoroughly, the changing room is still quite cold afterwards, so the shower barely has any effect.

Karlijn: I always hoped they would install floor heating in the changing rooms...

Karlijn: Ooh, that would have been super nice! Nice warm feet!

At that moment you just want to change as soon as possible, but the water has swollen your skin to such an extent that it is impossible to put on your skinny jeans. So you must stay in the cold even longer. Luckily you will automatically warm up due to these struggles.

Karlijn: I wonder if men also suffer from this...

Karlijn: Maybe.. Or maybe not, but I am sure there are plenty of other things that do bother men!

Especially now, in this time, where you have to bike toward the swimming pool with your swimwear on, the (tight) panties can rub or 'schiiry' as the source said. We do not suffer from this as women, but we can definitely imagine the struggle.

Karlijn: Oops, that doesn't sound pleasant.

Karlijn: I wouldn't trade my swimsuit for that!

Karlijn: Hmm, well...

Oh yes, there is also a disadvantage to the tight bathing suits. For example doing a 'pee pee' is suddenly very difficult. Not only when you urgently have to go during training, but even when you just got dressed for training and you want to get on your bike, a 'number one' becomes challenging...

Karlijn: Well, that's definitely annoying!

Karlijn: Yup, if they would just come up with something...

Karlijn: I KNOW!?!... A Buttflap!

Oh well, enough whining and complaining. Struggles are annoying but they will not ruin our mood completely. Swimming is delightful even with these small miseries. Eventually you can chat about them. Are you thinking, 'hey, you guys forgot about these fundamental struggles, then send us a message! Even we, Karlijn & Karlijn, will always be happy fishes in the sea!

Nonsense with Ties

It was not the second day of Christmas in nineteen sixty-two, and Flappie's cage was long empty by then. However, it was the first of October two thousand and twenty-two and the hall of the Spiegel was still filled at that time, not with herbs as with Flappie, but with the brand new and very old board. I remember this like it was yesterday, my hand went up, not to toast to the board change, but to ask a question online. I had a question that bothered me throughout the general meeting. This time it wasn't about what normally bothers me, like global warming, metal straws that you can't bend or that everyone knows that a 'rondvraag' doesn't necessarily have to be a question. No, my dear readers, it was about a history issue. If you don't know yet, talking about how history played out or how I'm going to write history by filling up more beers is a hobby of mine. I will not beat around the bush, but just spray it out. For me it was about what appeared on Mother Nature first. The Gallus Gallus domesticus (GGD) or the ovum. Popularly we call these two the chicken and the egg. The GGD is a dinosaur in our current society. I was told that some ten thousand years ago the GGD spread its wings somewhere in the Far East to finally arrive in the Netherlands around eight hundred BC. But the big question is: how did this chicken originate? As every individual knows with the chicken, you do not suffer from a howling child from the cut. The chicken lays an egg. From that egg, as Pino puts it nicely, comes an uulskuuk'n. But what plagues me is: how can a GGD arise without an egg first? I do have a theory, namely that the GGD descends from an incapable dinosaur, who just couldn't do anything, so that's why I decided to become the most versatile piece of meat. Thanks to this fantastic decision, we can now enjoy a delicious chicken corn. Which brings me to the next question, namely why is it chicken corn and not corn chicken. Unfortunately, time has flown by and we are passing this issue on to another time.

So that gives relief. I finally lost my egg to you. If you share a different opinion or want to give feedback on my theory, feel free to mail mediacie@zpv-piranha.nl.

Kisses from the Boyz,
Ties

Jokes with Mathijs & Matthijs

Douwe is a Dutch soldier, he runs toward a crossroad and sees a nun standing there. He asks, "Sister, may I hide under your skirt for a moment, I'll explain later." The nun enthusiastically accepts the proposal. Moments later, two MPs come running and ask the nun: "Did a soldier pass by?" She answers yes and sends the MPs in another direction. After the MPs have disappeared, Douwe crawls out of her skirt and says: "Thank you, sister, I don't want to go to Afghanistan." The nun nods understandingly. To further compliment the nun, Douwe says: "I don't want to be a rude sister, but you have the most beautiful pair of legs I've ever seen." Wout answers: "If you had looked a bit higher, you would have seen the most beautiful balls in the world" "I don't want to go to Afghanistan either."

A kangaroo walks into the sports canteen, sits down at the bar and orders a beer. "That will be twenty-five euros," says the bartender. That is a bit expensive, the kangaroo thinks, but still puts twenty-five euros on the counter, is served a freshly tapped beer and starts to drink it slowly. After a while he realizes that the whole cafe is staring at him. "Boy," he says to the bartender, "the whole cafe is looking at me. A bit rude, don't you think?" "You have to understand," says the bartender, "we don't often get kangaroos here." "No I get that," says the kangaroo, "if you twenty-five euros for a beer..."

Winter is well on its way when Denise thinks: "I'm going ice fishing". She's done her research, bought all the gear and heads to the ice.

She starts to cut a hole in the ice as she suddenly hears a voice: "There are no fish here".

Shocked, she moves her seat to another spot on the ice. Just before she wants to cut a hole again, she hears another voice: "There are no fish here!".

Denis, quite shocked and worried, moves to another spot one more time. There she tries it one more time, and again: "There are no fish here!!".

She stops, looks up and asks, "Is that you, God?"

The voice answers:

"No, I am the announcer of the artificial ice rink!"

Puzzles

There's nothing like making a delicious puzzle next to the fire. This can only be done, or done with a team, there is something for everybody. This edition of the puzzle page contains two puzzles a binary puzzle and a Swedish puzzle. For those who don't know the rules of a binary puzzle yet, we'll set out the rules.

- All boxes must be filled in with a 1 or 0.
- No more than two of the same number may be next to, or underneath each other.
- Each other Each row and column must contain the same total number of zeros and ones.
- Each row is unique and each column is unique, however this means that a row and a column can be filled in the same way

Hopefully, as an inexperienced binary puzzle maker, you can also crack this puzzle as well as everybody else. To stay in the winter atmosphere theme is also a nice price to earn. The orange boxes of the Swedish puzzle form a word, send this word to mediacie@zpv-piranha.nl.

Have fun with the puzzle!!
